

The background of the entire page is a warm, orange-toned illustration. It features a large, dark silhouette of a woman's head in profile, facing right. She has a voluminous afro hairstyle. Behind her head is a lighter orange silhouette of the African continent. In the lower right, a bright sun is setting or rising over a range of low, rolling hills. The woman is wearing a large, circular, ornate earring and a multi-strand beaded necklace. The overall mood is serene and celebratory of African heritage.

A striking, addictive fragrance that commands attention from the first encounter. It opens with a bold fusion of warm spice and airy freshness, creating a contrast that feels both vibrant and intriguing. As the scent unfolds, a radiant heart of white florals and aromatic notes emerges, softened by a subtle metallic edge that adds a modern, luminous twist.

ENDANGERED[®]

goddess

Why does Endangered Goddess change colour?

You may have noticed our beloved EDT change colour.

The colour change is cosmetic and does not mean the fragrance has gone bad.

The cause of the change in colour:
Natural Ingredients (Vanilla)
Oxidation
Heat

Did you know?

Vanilla-based fragrances often contain materials such as vanillin, ethyl vanillin or naturally vanilla extracts.

These ingredients are naturally prone to oxidation and therefore may change colour over time.

Notes in Endangered Goddess: Coconut, vanilla and honey.
